

Question: What is the Equal Rights Ordinance (ERO) and what does it do?

Answer: The ERO prohibits discrimination in places of public accommodation, employment, housing practices and City contracting. Employment and housing laws already prohibit discrimination for most cases based on gender identification and sexual orientation if it's based on gender stereotyping.

The City will refer complaints to federal and state agencies if it is within those agencies' jurisdiction. For all other complaints, the City will attempt to reconcile the dispute through mediation before referring it for prosecution. No civil cause of action is created by the ordinance. Businesses contracting with the City with 15 or more employees are required to sign an affidavit stating they agree to comply with the employment provisions in the ordinance. Failure to comply may result in cancellation of the contract.

Question: How will restroom usage be affected by the ordinance?

Answer: Nothing will change regarding restroom usage. Public restrooms are exempt from the ordinance. Businesses can still segregate restrooms based on gender.

Citation: Section D \(3\)

Question: Has the Equal Rights Ordinance been properly vetted to the public?

Answer: Yes. The ordinance was posted in compliance with the Texas Open Meetings Act and, in addition, was scheduled for a public hearing on December 8, even though there is no requirement for such a hearing required by law. The council received input from citizens during the meeting. Staff also thoroughly vetted the proposed ordinance.

Question: How are religious organizations affected by this ordinance?

Answer: Religious organizations are not affected by this ordinance. Religious, political, governmental, educational, and nonprofit organizations (except for City contracting) are exempted by the ordinance, except as otherwise provided by state and federal law to allow for constitutional and statutory freedom of expression and religion issues.

Citation: Section C

Question: What if my personal religious beliefs conflict with compliance of the Equal Rights Ordinance?

Answer: The ordinance provides due process for persons or businesses based on available legal defenses, including the Texas Religious Freedom Restoration Act.

With regard to City contracting, an application can be made to the City Manager for a waiver from the City contracting affidavit requirement based on a conflict with federal or state law.

Citation: Section G \(3\)

Question: Is this an identical ordinance to other Texas cities that regulate discrimination?

Answer: No. It's similar to some of the other ordinances because it is partially based on existing federal law. Most of the other city ordinances do not have a restroom exemption.

Question: Have there been any complaints based on gender discrimination?

Answer: The City doesn't typically track complaints in areas we don't regulate. The federal and state agencies that handle housing and employment matters already process some complaints alleging discrimination based on sexual orientation and gender identity, but only if those complaints equate to gender stereotyping. We don't have that data.

The following explains the public accommodation, housing and employment provisions and explains which cases will be referred to federal or state agencies and which cases will be investigated by the City.

Public Accommodation

- a. Prohibits businesses that are open to the public from discriminating in providing facilities, benefits, services, or goods based on the listed protected characteristics.

Citation: Section D \(1\)

- b. Public accommodations cases alleging discrimination based on race, color, national origin and religion will be referred for investigation to the federal government.

Citation: Section L \(4\)

- c. The City will investigate discrimination claims based on sex, military/veteran status, sexual orientation and gender identity.

Housing Practices

- a. Prohibits discrimination in housing practices based on the listed protected characteristics. The regulations in the ordinance are modeled after state and federal fair housing requirements that prohibit discrimination in the sale and rental of property and ancillary services associated with the business of selling and renting property.

Citation: Section E \(1\)

- b. Housing cases alleging discrimination based on race, color, sex, religion, national origin, disability status, and familial status will be referred to federal and state agencies for investigation.

Citation: Section L \(4\)

- c. The City will investigate discrimination claims based on military/veteran status, sexual orientation, and gender identity except for claims based on gender stereotyping.

Employment Practices

- a. Prohibits discrimination in employment practices (i.e. - hiring, discipline, termination, promotion and the like) based on the listed protected characteristics. However, the ordinance does not require employers to recognize same sex marriages or to provide benefits to domestic partners, either same sex or opposite sex.

Citation: Section F \(1\)

- b. Employment cases alleging discrimination based on race, color, sex, religion, age, national origin, genetic information, disability status or United States military/veteran status will be referred to federal and state agencies for investigation.

Citation: Section L \(4\)

- c. The City will investigate discrimination claims based on sexual orientation and gender identity except for claims based on gender stereotyping.
