April 3 - May 15 Haggard Library

We all need to master the knowledge and skills to make smart financial choices and prepare for whatever the future brings

Thinking Money for Kids strives to teach elementary age children and their parents, caregivers and educators about financial literacy topics—like saving, spending and budgeting—in a way that is both understandable and fun

Through a bustling community market-themed storyline, digital interactive content and other fun, hands-on activities, the exhibition explores:

- $ What is money?
- $ How do we earn money?
- $ Saving and spending
- $ Money values such as fairness and charitableness
- $ Making responsible financial decisions

Plano Public Library is one of 50 U.S. public libraries hosting Thinking Money for Kids. The museum-quality exhibition travels throughout the U.S between 2019 and 2021

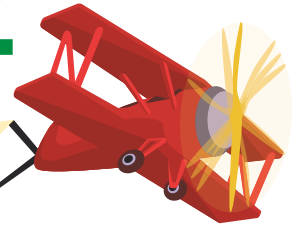

A grant from FINRA Investor Education Foundation and American Library Association is enhancing Thinking Money programs at the Plano libraries! Thinking Money was developed by the American Library Association Public Programs Office in collaboration with the FINRA Investor Education Foundation, whose support made this exhibition possible.
